

QI continues to move forward

We are happy to announce two exciting developments that start from this issue of Quintessence International.

The first is the adoption of Quintessence International by the German Society for Dental, Oral and Maxillofacial Medicine (DGZMK) as their official journal. DGZMK was founded in 1859 as the Central Association of German Dentists and is now one of the largest organizations in the field in Germany, with more than 20,000 members from all fields of dentistry. We are looking forward to this partnership and to share Quintessence International's clinically relevant and scientifically based publications with DGZMK members. Prof Dr Guido Heydecke and Prof Dr Werner Geurtsen join our excellent team of editors that continue to evaluate manuscripts submitted to QI with the help of our editorial board members and reviewers. We will continue serving the needs of general dental practitioners worldwide through the presentation of high-level research, educational short cases, and clinical notes.

The second big development is that from now on, Quintessence International will be offered exclusively as an online subscription. We will maintain the format of ten issues per year, and readers interested in a printed version will be able to purchase a yearbook that will include selected articles. We hope in this way to reduce our environmental impact, while continuing to provide high-quality peer-reviewed dental research and clinical reports.
